

One Nation Under God, Indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for All

Let us just presume that it is time we start in having our words, actions, and facts match — that if we talk the talk, we sure as hell better walk the walk, as the saying goes.

As you all know, the above statement is taken from our allegiance to the flag. Did you ever wonder why we would teach our children to have an allegiance to an inanimate object?? Now for the facts behind the words written. We are not one nation under God. If the phrase "under God" means cared for and ruled by the living God, we are definitely not "under God". We are not indivisible as long as we see truckers who keep this nation alive having to stop at the border of each state and pay the piper. If this is a country free from government tyranny, I would surely hate to see "tyranny". And we are far from having justice practiced in our courts or any other place in our government.

So what are we as citizens of a phony, hypocritical country going to do about it? Always remember, a nation is the sum total of the people who inhabit it. So, my dear friends, it is up to us as individuals to start with ourselves and by the grace of God we could see a movement that would not only take us back to a government by the people, but to a people who are so governed by the Holy Spirit that we represent the only true righteous government on the face of the earth. Indeed, the type of government God intended for this country called America in the first place.

After I draw an outline of what it will take to bring forth such a government, you will have to decide if you are willing to pay the price to make it happen. It takes only a few sold out in body, soul and spirit as were the disciples 2000 years ago, to bring one age to an end and to lay the foundation for the next age.

The seed planted by our forefathers was soon polluted by the sayers and not the doers. For instance, Thomas Jefferson did not believe in slavery but the price to pay for him to give up his slaves was too great. I will describe the seed's qualities later.

Abraham Lincoln did not believe in slavery but he allowed the states to decide whether or not slavery should be abolished. Was his desire for votes or his desire to keep the nation together greater than his desire for justice???

Our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution are a light to the world. When the light of our Creator was still here in America they seemed to serve us well. Always remember words are worthless unless we find substance behind the words. The Constitution is a parchment of paper that states that the government has no jurisdiction over our lives in any manner. The Constitution was not a guide on how we should treat one another. That information is found in the Bible, another declaration on which this country was founded. But we see that even with that Declaration of Independence (our Constitution) that shocked the whole world into reality is proving worthless in our own time.

Without each individual wanting an inner change of heart so drastic that a Constitution is not needed we are nothing more than a poor bunch of slaves, born in hell, each one eating off one another, our tongues a den of iniquity — indeed, the most to be pitied of all animals.

So we can get rid of capitalism, we can vote in a republican, we can open the prison doors and on and on, but unless we free ourselves from our inherent self nature, we are in a prison no declaration or constitution can help, as was proven by the generation following the true seed that founded our country.

Let me attempt to describe the seed that was planted at the founding of our country by quoting from a book by Peter Marshall called The Light and the Glory. "And the early comers knew that Jesus had shown them the only way that it would or could work; 'If any man would come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow Me.' This meant a daily commitment to the crossing out of self-love and self-will, in order to obey God and love one another. For the more selfless they became, the more they could truly love their neighbors. This was crucial to God's plan; it was His clear intent that, as they lived the Christian life, they would grow into such unity that they would become, in effect a body of believers — His body, until His return. In other words, if one member suffers, all suffer together; if one member is honored, all rejoice together. This was the way the early comers covenanted together, as each group formed its church." End of quote. Remember, a seed always brings forth after its own kind.

So here we are now in the year 2000, a new millennium starting, yes, a new age, a new dispensation. The fruit of the seed planted is about to spring forth in all its glory. We know with much tribulation we enter the kingdom. If we suffer with Christ we will be glorified with Him. Are we so puny-faced, so satisfied with material things we are afraid of suffering, afraid of tribulation?

Right now we are in a battle to rid our country of the shackles of unfair codes and laws. We will carry the battle to the gate. Let us remember that we have fathers who are as great as the ones who founded America and their doings are recorded for us in the greatest and most accurate of all history books. Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ruth, Deborah, Ezra, Moses and on and on — great men and women who set down the path to true freedom.

In the book of Zechariah we have an example of the foundation of a new age being laid.

Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit is the only way to true freedom. For as we move to unshackle America from its grave clothes of laws made by ignorant people, the Holy Spirit will move with us to change the hearts of the people so we live as God intended us to live. If the Holy Spirit not go with us, I for one will not move and God knows this as He has prepared all of us for this hour.

Now let me talk about the price we must be prepared to pay to accomplish what God has in mind, not for America only, but for the human race. America owes a large debt to the human race. We, in a sense, are bigger hypocrites than other nations for we did all our dirty work under the guise of Christianity, so our shame and punishment will be double, for we should not have allowed our principles of what is right to be overshadowed by greed or cowardice or any such thing. In doing so we have lost the spirit that made our nation a great and honored nation. Believe me it was not capitalism. Capitalism is no different than any other "ism". It is more deceptive because God's promises to our forefathers are still shining with favoritism on this country and people have given man the honor instead of God.

We all must awaken to the fact that we are living in a world God is about to destroy and He is preparing us to take the journey from the old world to the new America, much like He prepared the people in the old world years ago.

First He put an awakening in their hearts that made them discontent with the slavery they just took for granted as a part of life. Now do you suppose all members of a family had the same awakening?? I would presume not. So we now find some members of the family spoke one language and some another, for we speak out of the issues of our heart. If there were any religious affiliations, once their eyes were opened they saw the hypocrisy in the church was the same as the government. This caused a severance from friends and persecution began. They began to see the only thing they could take with them was the trade they had learned as they used the time wisely while in the old world. Let me add — this trade which was for the support of each individual, became the commerce of the new world starting with contributing to a small community. "If you do not work, you do not eat," became the foundation of a new life.

I am saying all of this because America is about to begin an exciting, painful journey from one world to another. Call the old world the "church age", call it "old America", call it what you want; it is an age that is over, putrid, ready to be buried for it is already dead. Call the new world "kingdom of God", "new America", or you may come up with a new name. In the old world resides an animal called a human being. In the new world is a new creation made in God's image.

Now, do you see the government that governed the old animal cannot serve its purpose in the new world, for the entity to be ruled is different. In both the Old and

New Testaments God has promised to write the laws upon our hearts so thus it becomes quite natural for those who make it into the kingdom to keep God's laws. In writing the laws upon our hearts, our thinking changes, our desires change and our will changes.

As we move forward, slowly, led by the Holy Spirit, we will see governments fall for we will not need government as we now know it. You say, it is impossible. All things are possible with God and we have examples of times in the Bible when a prophet was head over Israel. We find Nineveh repenting and the city became ruled over by God. And most current of all, we find beginning to happen the prayer prayed by the Christians for 2000 years, "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven." Let me ask you this question. Have we prayed this all these years with belief or has it been just a bunch of words?

Bon voyage ship mate. See you on the shores of a new world.
